RESULTS OF THE ARBITRATION.

The coal strike commissioners have gone about their work in a business-like, systematic way that is calculated to inspire confidence in them. Their decision, without allowing any higgling over the matter, that whatever finding they make as to change in wages shall take effect upon November 1st shows that they have entered upon their duties with a determination to settle the vexed question. The manner in which they have begun their investigation—going into the mines, seeing how the work is done, questioning miners, other employees and mine bosses as to the working and the rules show a determination to get at the bottom of affairs and to become thoroughly acquainted with the situation before going into the testimony of the two sides to the controversy on hearing their views on the matters in dispute. It can be safely said that there is going to be no white-washing done in this case. The board has decided that its general meetings shall be open to the public. The press representatives will be present, and the people will know each day what evidence was introduced and what proceedings had at the session of the day before. Everything is to be above-board and open to the scrutiny and criticism of the public.

Thus at the very outset public confidence is established in the honesty of purpose and desire to do justice between the parties on the part of the members of the arbitration board. They have before them one of the most difficult problems that has ever been brought before a similar tribunal in this country, and their findings will be of more far-reaching results than that of any arbitration board that has ever undertaken to settle a dispute between contending parties. A vast deal depends upon the action of this board. The results of their action will not stop with the settlement of the dispute as to amount of wages and number of hours of a day's work now raised between the miners and the coal operators. But will establish a precedent for the settlement of contests between capital and labor and may possibly be made the basis for very important legislation regarding compulsory arbitration of such matters. Year by year this question of the relations between capital and labor is becoming of greater importance in this country. Heretofore the settlement of all such disputes has been only temporary. Which ever side gives way does so with a mental reservation, determined to renew the fight as soon as a more convenient season arises. Employees who strike for higher wages or shorter hours are whipped out and go back to work on the old terms. They are discontented, restless, determined to again make the demand, backed up by another strike as soon as an opportune occasion arises. If the strikers win the employers take them back after granting the concessions demanded, feeling that they have been imposed upon by their employees and await an opportunity to recover the lost ground as soon as the time comes when they can better afford to "fight it out" with their employees.

The result of this coal mine investigation and the arbitration of the questions in dispute will go a long way toward putting an end to this undesirable and dangerous state of affairs. This is an experiment. It is something new in this country and was never before heard of in the Old World; but it is an experiment which we expect to prove a success—to a great measure at least, if not to the full extent desired.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second on half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Portland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by R. R. Bellamy's drug store.

OUR TWO PRESIDENTS.

The anthracite coal miners of Pennsylvania celebrated "Mitchell day" last Wednesday. They all quit work, though they had taken it up only a few days before after a holiday of five months, to do honor to their great chief. In the parade was borne a banner on which was inscribed: "We Honor our Presidents, Roosevelt and Mitchell." On this the New York Evening Post says:

"President Roosevelt cannot wholly like the cool way in which the Mine Workers' Union continues to annex him. 'We honor and respect our president,' Roosevelt and Mitchell," was the inscription on one of the banners borne in the Mitchell day jollification. It was generous in the miners not to put Mitchell's name first. Mr. Roosevelt

PATRIOTISM

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware of. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia.

The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier, and a faint finder.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion are promptly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It builds up the body with sound flesh and solid muscle.

"After I received the advice which you gave me in regard to my treatment," writes Geo. Dornay, Esq., of 1015 Pulaski Street, Baltimore, Maryland, "I used your 'Golden Medical Discovery' according to directions. After using four bottles I considered myself cured, as I have not felt any symptoms since. Had tried almost all remedies that I heard of that were good for dyspepsia, but without relief. Finally, I became discouraged, and wrote to you for advice, with the above result."

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" is only seeking to make the little more profit realized on the sale of less meritorious preparations.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to any expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 37 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

velt plainly endeavored to be entirely impartial as between miners and operators, and has given it to be understood that he will altogether keep his hands off the work of the arbitration commission.

We cannot agree with the Post. We do not believe President Roosevelt objects to the motto inscribed upon that banner. It was no reflection upon him, but was a tribute to his honesty, integrity and fairness as the chief executive of this great nation in his efforts to bring about a settlement of a most difficult question and of ending a condition of affairs in which labor and capital were pitted against each other in a deadly strife that had already begun to work great hardship to the people at large and injury to the manufacturing interests of a large section of the country.

The motto carried by the coal miners in their procession was not intended, and will not be construed by the president as a boast by the strikers that he was on their side in a fight against capital, but that at last the country had a man in the executive chair who was the president of the men who delve in the coal pits as well as of the men who reap the rewards of their labor. They did not claim him as their president and champion as against their opponents in this fight, but as the president of all concerned in a controversy and the champion of equal rights and justice to all men, whether they be millionaire mine owners or day laborers in the mines.

No. This motto should not be a cause of offense to the president, but rather of gratification and pride.

How to Get Rid of a Cold.

"Shall I ever be rid of this cold?" This is the daily question of a man racked by a cough that seems to tear his lungs. Let him cheer up and take Allen's Lung Balm. This remedy not merely overcomes colds, coughs and colds, however obstinate, but it is recommended even in the first stages of consumption.

ONE MORE DAY.

Only one more day before the polls are opened for the political contest from one end of the country to the other. Only one more day for the candidates and the politicians to get in their work—and a great deal of work will be done in that day. If the truth were known it would be found, we expect, that the work done tomorrow and on election day will have more effect on the results of the election in many localities than all the stump speaking that has been going on since the beginning of the campaign. Our people are becoming better educated politically each year and are consequently growing less dependent on the campaign orators for their knowledge of political events and party principles. The more they read the less they are influenced by stump speeches. The intelligent and educated men make up their minds from what they read from day to day in the newspapers rather than from what is told them by the campaign orators. The venal, purchasable class, if they read the papers, are not influenced by them any more than they are by the speakers. They have no party principles to speak of, and what little they have is influenced by dollars rather than by arguments, and it is with this class that the heavy work will be put in tomorrow and next day. The men of the first mentioned class have already made up their minds how they are going to vote.

About the only effect of political canvasses as now conducted is to awaken such enthusiasm in the men belonging to the two sides as to induce them to come to the polls on election day. We doubt enough votes were turned by all the political speaking in this state during the whole campaign to change the political complexion of a county wherein the parties are at all unevenly divided.

The strike arbitration committee has begun its labors. It would be a rash man, however, who would venture to predict when it will end them.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

ABOUT MRS. EDDY.

Interesting Story of the Head of the Christian Science Church.

Thursday night, October 16th, Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, of Concord, N. H., lectured on Christian Science and its founder at Symphony Hall in Boston, Mass. The magnificent auditorium was crowded to overflowing. He said in part:

"The holy purpose of this religion is clearly stated in those words which the Master quoted from the Prophet Isaiah, as the announcement of his mission, 'The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me, because He hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; He hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, and to set at liberty them that are bruised.'"

"No doubt its unparalleled development has occasioned the oft repeated question, 'What are the reasons for the marvelous growth of Christian Science?'"

"Those who are most conversant with this movement know that what is most conspicuous in the cause and its growth is the wisdom, foresight, untiring devotion and lofty Christian character of its Leader. The opportunities afforded me for a full and adequate estimate of the leader of this great movement have been favorable. During the past four years my residence has been in Concord, N. H., the home of Mrs. Eddy, and for more than three months at one time I was a member of her household. The New Hampshire histories contain a review of Mrs. Eddy and her co-workers. From these accurate historical works one may glean much of interest concerning her and her family. She was born in Bow, near Concord, N. H.; she comes from sturdy Scotch and English ancestors. Captain John Lovell, the famous Indian fighter, whose valor in the field destroyed the power of the savages and made it possible for the early settlers of northern New England to peacefully establish themselves, was his grandfather. His great-grandfather was Captain Joseph Baker, who settled in Pembroke about 1740. Captain Baker was one of the foremost men of his section. He received his commission from King George as captain of the colonial foot company. He was a member of the Third Provincial Congress of New Hampshire and active in helping the Province to take its stand for the new republic. His three sons, one of them was Mrs. Eddy's grandfather, were all soldiers of the revolution. Intelligently her family has always stood high. Mrs. Eddy's brother, Albert Baker, was a graduate of Dartmouth college. He was an honored member of the New Hampshire bar, an eminent debater, and a brilliant orator. He was twice elected to the legislature of his native state and was rapidly attaining a foremost position in those legislative halls, when he died at the early age of 31. In the old church of Pembroke, three of her ancestors were its honored deacons. Her mother's father, Daniel Ambrose, was a member of the North Congregational church, which was known as 'Deacon Ambrose's church.' The historian also tells us that largely was the Baker family interested in founding the Methodist church of that town, that with propriety it might have been called the Baker meeting house. Thus both sides of her family were founders of local churches. Mrs. Eddy's parents were devout members of the Congregational church, and her father was superintendent of the Sunday-school. Her mother was a woman of rare Christian virtue, and the atmosphere of the house was devoutly religious. Mrs. Eddy is richly endowed by nature and by grace for her work. She possesses quick comprehension, a remarkably retentive memory, deep spiritual insight, an unquenchable love for man and a tireless energy. Her native gifts were supplemented by the best of academic training in the schools and academies of New Hampshire. She was thoroughly taught by the well known grammarian Prof. Dyer H. Sanborn, and received careful attention from her distinguished father, Mr. Albert Baker, a well established reputation for literary ability, before her discovery of Christian Science. In childhood she thought in rhythm, and versification flowed from her pen as readily as the torrents from the mountain brooks. Her prose and verse compositions were eagerly read, and some of her writings, published in a book of poems ten years before her discovery of Christian Science, are now found in our public libraries. Her writings were not only sought by some of the leading magazines of the country, and she declined an editorial position offered by Mr. Albert Case, editor of the Odd Fellows magazine, at an annual salary of three thousand dollars.

Mrs. Eddy, from earliest childhood, was deeply interested in the subject of religion. She was early baptized into the church, and became an ardent member. As a child she listened eagerly to discussions on religion between her father and the visiting clergymen, who frequented their hospitable home. When afflicted with a fever, her mother turned her daughter's thoughts to God in prayer. Relief came through her earnest petitions, and from that moment to the present hour, her thought of God and His helplessness to man has constantly abided with her.

In 1856 Mrs. Eddy received an injury from a severe fall upon the ice curbing which was pronounced beyond all earthly help. In her dying hour, she was comforted by the thought of the divine Helper. A wonderful illumination dawned upon her expectant vision, and she arose restored to health and strength. She proved the divine remedy to be a very simple healing the lame and the blind and by raising the dying. Having found the means whereby Christ Jesus and his disciples wrought their beneficent work, she earnestly labored to give her discovery to all mankind. She wrote the textbook of the denomination, founded the Massachusetts Metaphysical college, established the church and its Publication Society. Thus she is not only the discoverer of the Science, but the founder of this religious denomination. Those who have followed her closely have observed whole-hearted and entire devotion to the Cause entrusted to her care. She gives no time for social enjoyments, every moment of her waking hours is devoted to the service of God and man. She is honored and beloved in her own city for her interest in its welfare. She has generously contributed to the city public improvements, and her liberal donations are given not only to her church, but to the hospitals and other benevolent institutions. After a thorough study of her work and an intimate acquaintance with her life, I declare with gratitude that I have found Mrs. Eddy to be the most reverent, Christlike character that I have ever known."

Mad the boy a Pair of Ears.

A most unusual surgical operation was performed here recently, when Burtell Roe, an 8-year-old boy, was provided with a brand new pair of ears. The little fellow was born without ears, but could hear all right, as the interior parts were present as in any human, but there was nothing out of the way to indicate that he could ever have ears. His parents took him to many hospitals and all the physicians refused to undertake the operation. Finally local physicians became interested in the case and after obtaining the parents' consent, they performed what is known as the plastic operation, and in two hours the little fellow was the possessor of a presentable pair of ears.—Blowing Green, Ohio, dispatch.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

The farming idea at Wellesley college is a charming idea, but there is something alarming in the talk about making the girls "expert grafters."

"Last winter an infant child of mine had a crop in a violent form," says Elder John W. Rogers, a Christian Evangelist, of Filley, Mo. "I gave her a few doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and in a short time all danger was past and the child recovered. This is the only remedy I have ever given as soon as the first symptoms appear, will prevent the attack. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by R. R. Bellamy's drug store."

Result of a Kind Deed.

Several years ago, when Rev. E. G. Fusey, pastor of Polkton circuit, lived at his native home in Warren county, there once came a tramp to his house and spent the night. With the tramp was his little son, about ten years old. At night Mr. Fusey asked the little boy if he didn't want to stay with them and try to earn something of himself, but the little fellow gave a negative reply. But the next morning he reconsidered and decided to stay and make it his home. He was taken to school and given a thorough training and provided with clean clothing. He was sent to the neighborhood schools where he acquired a little education. That boy is now Andrew S. Burke, Professor of Dentistry in the University of Pennsylvania. He came to Polkton a few days ago on a visit to Mr. Fusey. There is a good lesson in this sketch to the boy who complains that his opportunities are limited.—Marshall Home.

SMOTHER A COUGH. You can smother a cough with your hand but you can't cure it that way. Some medicines only smother coughs. Scott's Emulsion cures them. Old coughs and deep-rooted coughs can't be cured until the inflammation which causes them has been replaced by healthy tissue. That is exactly the kind of thorough work Scott's Emulsion does. It changes the entire nature of the throat and lungs so that there is nothing to cough about.
